

Vaccine Decision Information

We require a rabies vaccination, but this is not the only vaccine that is important to the health of your pet. Although not required, we strongly recommend that you have your pet immunized for the following diseases:

Dogs: Distemper, Hepatitis, Leptospirosis, Parainfluenza, Parvovirus, and Bordetella (DHLPP and Bord/PI)

Cats: Rhinotracheitis, Calicivirus, Panleukopenia, and Chlamydia (FVRCPC)

This recommendation is supported by the following facts:

- 1) Sick patients are admitted into and cared for in every animal hospital.
- 2) Anesthesia and surgical procedures are a stress on the body, and stress lowers the body's immune defenses.
- 3) Some of the above diseases are contagious to humans as well as animals.

Please consider this information carefully as you make your decision. If you have further questions or concerns, please ask to speak to a doctor. We want you to make an informed decision and are happy to discuss your pet's health needs with you at any time.

Please circle the vaccines you would like your pet to receive or initial if you do not want your pet to receive any vaccines.
